INTRODUCTION.

DURING the first quarter of the 18th century, in the reigns that is, of Queen Anne and George I, the diocese of Lincoln was fortunate in having at its head two of the most able, learned, and energetic bishops whom the Church of England has ever known. Their predecessor, Bishop Gardiner who, in his Charges, had shown himself fully alive to the many evils and abuses prevalent throughout the diocese, had died 1st March, 1705. His successor, the first of those with whom we are here concerned, was Dr. William Wake, who was already Canon of Christchurch, Oxford, Rector of St. James', Westminster, and Dean of Exeter, and who was consecrated Bishop of Lincoln, 21 Oct., 1705. He presided over the diocese for ten years to the close of 1715, when he was translated to the Archbishopric of Canterbury. His name is widely known as the author of learned works on the Constitution of the Church of England, and for his correspondence with members of the Gallican Church. Happily for the diocese he was succeeded by a man of equal learning, zeal and ability. This was Dr. Edmund Gibson, Rector of Lambeth as well as Precentor of Chichester and Archdeacon of Surrey, who will always be remembered as the learned compiler of the vast Codex Juris Ecclesiastici Anglicani. He was consecrated as Bishop of Lincoln 20 Jan., 1716, and carried on his good work in the diocese until 1723, when he in his turn was translated to the more important diocese of London. There he exercised so much influence in church matters as to be styled the heir apparent of Canterbury, though he was passed over on Archbishop Wake's death in 1737, and he declined the primacy on account of age, when ten years later it was offered him. John Wesley, whose father was so long benefited in Lincolnshire, and who himself was brought into contact with Bishop Gibson in London, spoke of him after his death in 1748 as "a man eminent for piety and learning," and as "a great man, who is now I trust in a better world."

Though the diocese of Lincoln had in 1542 been relieved of Oxfordshire to form the new See of Oxford, and of the counties of Northampton and Rutland which were assigned to the new See of Peterborough, it still at this time contained the six Archdeaconries of Lincoln, Stow, Huntingdon, Bedford, Buckingham, and Leicester, covering the five counties of Lincoln, Huntingdon, Bedford, Buckingham, Leicester, with part of Hertford, including no less than 1312 benefices, and reaching from Barton-on-Humber in the north to Eton on the Thames on the south, and from the extreme eastern coast to where Leicestershire borders on Warwick in the heart of mid England. Buckden, the only habitable place of residence then remaining to our bishops within the diocese, though it seems to us now at Lincoln so remote, was in fact in as central a position as could be found as regards the bishop's visitation of the various parts of his diocese, and its general accessibility by his clergy.

Bishop Wake's primary Visitation of his diocese took place in May and June, 1706, and in preparation for it he addressed on April 18th, the day after the issue of his formal Monition, the following Letter of Advertisement to the Clergy of the Diocese :—

"Reverend Brethren,

Having discharged what I was commanded to do, I take this opportunity further to desire you when you come to the Visitation, to bring with you in writing the best account you can of your several parishes in the following particulars.

I. What is the name of your Parish, and in what Deanery doth it ly?

II. Who is Patron of it? Is it a Rectory or Vicarage? Of what extent? How many families are there reputed to be in it?

III. What Dissenters have you from the Church of England? Of what kinds are they? Have they any Meeting-house within your Parish?

IV. Is your Living under £80 p. ann.? And what is the Usual Value of it?

V. Is there any Lecture, School, Alms-House, or Hospital endowed within your Parish? And what is the Endowment of it?

VI. Doth any Person of Quality, or any Gentleman of Estate live, or hath any such a Seat or house within your Parish?

VII. Are there any Monuments of Note in your Parish Church or Chappell? Or what other Antiquitys do you know of within your Parish?

The more fully and particularly you answer to these Querys, or any other Matters that may serve to give me a full knowledge of the state of my Diocese, the more you will oblige, My Reverend Brethren,

Your faithfull Friend & Brother,

W., Lincoln."¹

Subsequent Visitations were held by Bishop Wake in 1709, 1712 and 1715, the last not in person, but by commission, in view of his translation from Lincoln to Canterbury. His successor, Bishop Gibson, held his Primary Visitation in 1718, and in anticipation for it in the May of that year he issued the following Letter and Queries to the Clergy of the Diocese :—

"Good Brother,

The Practice of transmitting Queries to the Clergy which was begun by my Pious and Learned Predecessor, is of such great and apparent Use, that I should think myself much wanting, not only to myself but to my Successors, if I did not continue it. The particular Queries which I send you, are for the most part the same that you have usually received in order to the General Visitations; and I doubt not but you will return your particular Answers at the Time of my Visitation with the same ¹ Bp. Wake's Register, fol. 43. The dates and centres of his Primary Visitation for the Archdeaconries of Lincoln and Stow were—1706, Lincoln, Longoboby, Graffoe and Wraggöe—Consistory Court, May 21. Corringham and Manlake—Gainsborough Church, May 23. Lawres and Aslaceo—Consistory Court, May 25. Yarborough, Wallescroft and Grimsby—Caistor Church, May 28. Louthesk, Ludburgh and Calcewaith—Louth Church, May 30. Horncastle, Hill, Gartree, Candleshoe and Bolingbroke—Horncastle Church, June 1. South Holland and North Holland—Boston Church, June 4. Stamford, Beltisloe and Nesse—St. Mary's, Stamford, June 6. Aveland and Lafford—Bourne Church, June 7. Grantham and Loveden—Grantham Church, June 10. The Archdeaconry of Leicester was also visited this month, the southern Archdeaconries being left till the following year.

Exactness that you have hitherto done ; particularly upon those Heads which relate to the Place of your ordinary Residence and to the Times of performing Divine Service in your Church.

I must further entreat you not to reckon yourselves unconcerned in the Presentments of your Churchwardens, but to urge them to a serious Perusal of the Articles of Enquiry which I have drawn into as narrow a Compass as I could, in hopes that the fewer the Questions are, the more exact and particular their Answers will be. To this end I beseech you not only to press upon them the Obligation of their Oath, and to assist them in framing their Presentments, but also to point out to them the particular Persons and Things in your Church and Parish, which you observe to fall under the respective Articles, and which they in consequence are bound to Present.

I am aware that the Work of Visitation hath been usually accompanied with the Work of Confirmation. But an ill state of Health which I have labour'd under, hath made it hazardous if not impracticable for me to undertake both these together ; for which reason I have determin'd, not to Confirm in the course of my Visitation ; but to come again to you on purpose to perform that Work, when I shall have no other upon my Hands, nor any need of being attended by the Officers of my Court. And as the Separation of these two Duties, and their standing clear of each other, will contribute to the Order and Solemnity of both, so it will give me greater leisure, at both times, to make my own Enquiries and Observations, and to attend to such Questions and Representations as the Clergy may have occasion to offer.

In the mean time I take this Opportunity to declare, that when I come to Confirm, I shall not be willing to admit any who are under the Age of fourteen years.

I commend you and your Pastoral Labours to the Blessing of Almighty God, and am, Sir,

Your very Affectionate Friend and Brother,

May, 1718.

Edm^r. Lincoln^r.

1. What number of Families have you in your Parish ? Of these, How many are Dissenters ? And of what Sort are they ?

2. Have you any Licens'd or other Meeting-house in your Parish ? How many ? How often do they assemble ? In what Numbers ? Who teaches in them ?

3. Is there any Publick or Charity School, endow'd, or otherwise maintain'd in your Parish ? What number of Children are taught in it ? And what care is taken to instruct them in the Principles of the Christian Religion according to the Doctrine of the Church of England, and to bring them to Church, as the Canon requires ?

4. Is there in your Parish any Alms-house, Hospital, or other Charitable Endowment ? Have any Lands or Tenements been left for the Repair of your Church ? or to any other Pious Use ? Who has the direction of such Benefactions ? How are they managed ? Do you know, or have you heard, of any Abuses or Frauds committed in the Management of them ?

5. Do you Reside personally upon your Cure, and in your Parsonage House ? If not—Where do you reside ? And what is the Reason of your Non-residence ?

6. Have you a Residing Curate ? Is he duly qualified according to the Canons in that behalf? Does he live in your Parsonage-house? What Allowance do you make him?

7. Do you know of any who come to Church in your Parish, that are not Baptized?

8. How often is the Publick Service read in your Church? Is it duly performed twice every Lord's Day? If not,—How often? And at what Times, is it performed? And how comes it not to be twice perform'd, as the Act of Uniformity, and Canons of the Church, require?

9. How often, and at what Times, do you Catechize in your Church? Do your Parishioners duly send their Children and Servants to be instructed and Catechised? Do they learn any other Catechism for the better Understanding of that of the Church? What Catechism do they learn for that Purpose?

10. How often is the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper administered in your Church? What Number of Communicants have you in your Parish? How many of them usually receive? Particularly how many did communicate at Easter last?

11. Do you give open and timely Warning of the Sacrament before it is administered?

12. Have any Publick Penances been performed in your Church since the last Visitation? Do you know of any Commutations of Penance made by any of your Parish within the same Time? By whom was it done? And for what Money?"

The same Articles of Enquiry were sent out for Bishop Gibson's second Visitation in 1721, with a similar Letter, dated 2 August, 1721, which need not be reproduced here.¹

It will be seen that while Bishop Gibson's Enquiries are fuller as to the matters to which they relate, several heads of enquiry in Bp. Wake's time are omitted. Thus there is no reference in them to the Patronage of any Benefice, nor to the amount of its Revenue, nor to the existence of any objects of antiquarian interest, nor to the residence of any persons of note in the parish. On the other hand a question as to the number of Communicants is for the first time introduced, and the answers to the last Article of Enquiry as to the performance of Public Penance in the Church, or the Commutation of such for money throw light on the state of Ecclesiastical Discipline at this time.

It is to the diligence and care of these two great bishops in noting down and recording for their own guidance and that of their successors the answers made by their clergy to the fore-going Queries that we owe the Manuscript Volume, which has been preserved ever since in the Bishop's Registry, and which is entitled Speculum Diœceseos, because in it as in a Mirror might be seen at a glance the condition as to church matters of every parish within their extensive diocese. In form it is a quarto Volume, 12 inches by 8, containing 600 paper pages, bound in leather-covered boards, & labelled on the back, "Speculum Diœceseos

¹ The original Returns made to his Visitation Articles of 1718 and 1721 were taken to London by Bp. Gibson on his translation to that See. They are now preserved in the Cathedral Library of St. Paul's, those for each year being bound together in four qto. Vols. three of these containing Returns from the Archdeaconry of Lincoln, and one smaller one those belonging to the Archdeaconry of Stow. Here the Editor has been allowed to examine them thoroughly, and it has been thought worth while to print in an Appendix the answers to Bp. Gibson's last Article above, as showing how far Church Discipline was enforced at this period, and the opinion of the parochial clergy on its exercise.

Lincolniensis sub Episc. Gul. Wake et Ed. Gibson, 1705-1723." About sixty-seven pages at the end are left unused, but of the rest each alternate leaf is ruled horizontally for each benefice, arranged alphabetically according to the archdeaconries, five on each page, and vertically for the various headings, also five in number, under which the condition of each parish is described. The alternate leaves are left blank for the entry of occasional Observations,¹ which is the cause of the peculiar pagination which may be noted in the present volume. Under these headings the entries are made sometimes in English, but mostly in much abbreviated Latin.² It has been thought well however to translate the latter so as to present the whole in an intelligible English form, the original Latin words being added, whenever there is any doubt or difficulty about them. The form of the manuscript also as divided perpendicularly and horizontally is ill adapted for a printed page, and it has been thought well to arrange it also in a more convenient shape.³

Bishop Wake's first Visitation took place May and June, 1706, and in some few cases separate returns made at all five Visitations from that to 1721 may be distinguished, those for 1715, 1718, and 1721 being especially marked by the addition of their dates, as was natural as the danger of confusion with earlier entries increased. The latest dates mentioned in the present volume are the middle of 1722, though some few additions in another hand and a different form are as late as Jan., 1723, and in other archdeaconries such additions are found down to July, 1725.⁴ The addition to earlier entries of successive later returns renders the work at first sight somewhat confusing. But it is hoped it may be understood that statements or figures separated from previous ones by dots, as in the original, or placed within brackets, represent varying answers returned at subsequent visitations to the same enquiries. For example—Fam. 39 . . . 40 . . . 45, means that the number of families in the parish which at the earlier visitation was 39, had increased at a later one to 40, and at a later still to 45; or on the other hand the returns may show, in like manner, as they frequently do, a subsequent decrease. So also in the number of Services, "Twice every Sunday . . . Once, 1718," means that the Sunday Services which had been held twice at the earlier period, had been reduced to once in 1718. In some instances however it has seemed more convenient to express this by the use of brackets, as for example, Two (3) Anab., or Two (1) Quaker,

¹ In the Diocesan Hist. of Lincoln, edited by Precentor Venables and Archdeacon Perry for the S.P.C.K., p. 326, it is suggested that Bp. Wake's MS. was thus interleaved by Bp. Gibson to obtain space for his own observations. But there is no apparent evidence of this. The paper and handwriting are the same throughout. Many of the remarks are evidently due to Bp. Wake, and some are signed with his initial W., which is conclusive, and in fact Bishop Gibson made no enquiry as to such matters.

² That is the words are simply shortened, as Presb. for Presbyter, Res. for Residet, Dom. for Domus or Domum, and the like. For want of an English equivalent it has been found necessary to retain the contraction Ds. for Dominus. This title, the mediæval Dan or Sir, was given to such of the clergy as were not entitled to the higher degree of M.A. or Magister. It would be fitly rendered in English by Mr., if that term was not already appropriated.

⁴ In the Archdeaconry of Leicester two such late additions are found, at Kilncote, 21 July, 1725, and Sharnford, also 1725.

means that the number of Anabaptist or Quaker families in a parish had either increased or diminished subsequently.

As has been said, the condition of each parish is entered under five several Headings. The first of these entitled the Benefice gives its name, and usually its status, whether Rectory or Vicarage, or as in some few cases, a Donative. This is followed by the name of the Rural Deanery to which it belonged, and the number of Families it contained, specifying how many of these were Dissenters. These mostly consisted of Presbyterians, Anabaptists or Baptists, as they are now more commonly called, and Quakers : for it must be remembered that John Wesley was only born in 1703, at the very commencement of our period, so that the various denominations which have derived their origin from him, and which at this day are more familiar to us, had not then come into existence. At the foot of this compartment is added the name of the Patron, often very vaguely given, though it is here that we find most often corrections, marked with the W, which denotes the hand of Bishop William Wake.

2. The second column treats of the Incumbent, giving his name, and in the case of those already in possession the date of their ordination and the Bishop by whom they were ordained. For their successors the date of their institution only is given, at which these other particulars would have been enquired into. If there was a Curate, his name also is added, together with the amount of his Stipend, and it is stated whether either of these was resident, and what other preferment he held ; and as the returns extend over at least eighteen years, in some parishes a succession of several incumbents is mentioned.

3. Under the third heading are specified the Services. These were usually once or twice on a Sunday, though when several small parishes were held together it was only on alternate Sundays, or sometimes even less often. It was not uncommon, however, to have a Service also on Feast-days, and on Wednesdays and Fridays, especially in Lent. Far more stress was laid on the practice of public Catechizing, as to which the Bishop's enquiries are most particular, and the returns most full, it being insisted on in every parish, and practiced generally in Lent, and sometimes continued through the greater part of the summer. On the other hand, Holy Communion was seldom administered ; in most Churches no more than three or four times in the year, and there is little appearance of any efforts for its more frequent celebration.

4. In the fourth place, the Revenues of each benefice are set down, its so-called Real Value first, and the amount at which it was returned in 1706 to the Commissioners of Queen Anne's Bounty. These are followed by the value of the Benefice as entered in the King's Book, that is, the Valor Ecclesiasticus of Henry VIII. in 1535, with the Tenths thereon at which it was then assessed as payable to the Crown, and the Procurations due to the ecclesiastical authorities. In the case of a Vicarage, these last are divided into the sums payable by the Church or Rector, and by the Vicar respectively.

5. The fifth heading related to the Charities, if any, belonging to the parish. These relate to Alms-houses or Doles left for the use of the Poor, lands or rents set apart for the repair of the Church, and Schools when any endowments or charitable payments were given for their maintenance, and remarks are added as to the due administration or otherwise of these Charities.

Interleaved, as has been said, with these pages of particulars, are blank leaves, ruled horizontally for occasional Observations in each parish. These relate mostly to the residence of any person of quality in the parish, or to the existence of monuments in the Church, or to matters of antiquarian interest, or in some cases to the damage of the benefice by the diversion of its tithes.

ARCHDEACONRIES OF LINCOLN AND STOW.

The whole Diocese is divided according to its Archdeaconries, those of Lincoln and Stow being naturally given first, and it will be well to take these two together, as comprising between them the whole of Lincolnshire, and to make some further remarks on the information given as to the state of the county under these various headings. Needless to say, these two Archdeaconries retain here their ancient jurisdictions as they were before their recent equalisation, that of Lincoln comprizing 538 parishes arranged in 22 Rural Deaneries; while to Stow were assigned only the 89 parishes included in the four Deaneries of Aslacoe, Corringham, Lawres, and Manlake, which formed the ancient West Riding of Lindsey. These Deaneries also retain their immemorial historical boundaries, which have since been so ruthlessly obliterated by the re-arrangement of 1910, which has removed their ancient landmarks, and introduced such an element of confusion into the study of the ecclesiastical records of our Diocese.

The number of Benefices in the two Archdeaconries, it will be seen, amounted in the 18th century to 627, which exceeds the present number of 579, in spite of the frequent division of parishes and formation of new districts which has taken place in the larger towns. This is owing to the union of many small benefices, which in the earlier period was carried out in fact, though not in name, by the general holding of such benefices in plurality. On the other hand, the frequent practice in those days of plurality and non-residence, renders it difficult to reckon up the number of Clergy actually serving in the Diocese. We can only roughly estimate them as between one-half and two-thirds of the number of benefices, or of the present number of 671 Clergy, as given in the latest Diocesan Calendar.

With regard to the Population to which they had to minister, this is expressed by Families, and we need not suppose that in any case these are given with the precision and accuracy of a modern Census. They are rather estimates, expressed in round numbers, as roughly reckoned up by the incumbent or churchwardens of each parish. A special element of uncertainty occurs in the case of Gainsborough, which is stated both here and in the original Returns of 1718 to have had 2000 families. In the Returns of 1721 however the number of families at Gainsborough is given as 773, which is itself a sufficiently large estimate at a time when Boston had between 600 and 700, Stamford and Grantham from 400 to 500 each, and Lincoln itself from 735 to about 980. A hundred years later, that is, at the first official Census in 1801, Gainsborough had only a total population of 4506, and we cannot be far wrong in reckoning its families at this time as 773, rather than 2000. Making this correction, and reckoning up the earliest and the latest of these returns, we find the number of families in the county at the earlier period, that is, in 1706 to have been about 31,900,—at the later, that is, in 1721 about 30,450. If we compare these figures with the number of families in Lincolnshire at the Census of 1911, which was 131,589, it shows more than a four-fold increase within 200 years. Naturally this increase has been greatest in our larger towns. Thus Lincoln in 1911 contained 13,281 families against 980 in 1721, Boston 4049 against 600 or 700, Grantham and Gainsborough 4548 and 4606 respectively compared with 450 and 773 in 1721, while Grimsby shows the most astonishing increase of all, from hardly 100 families in 1721 to 16,457 in 1911. It will be seen that during the period with which we are concerned there was a slight decrease of population over the total area. It must be left for those better acquainted with local circumstances to explain such local variations, as for example, the fall within some 16 years, at Cadney from 107 to 48, at Cranwell from 50 to 12, at Winthorpe from 50 to 29, and at Wyberton from 140 to 60; or on the other hand the increase at Fleet from 76 to nearly 200, at Folkingham from 79 to 146, at East Halton from 40 to 103, and at Irnham from 27 to 80. Within these few years Crowle decreased from 240 families to 100, while at its neighbour Haxey, also in the Isle of Axholme, the population rose from 100 families to 320. Still more calling for local explanation is the increase at Heckington from 48 in 1706 to 240, and its subsequent fall in 1721 to 132.

After stating the total number of families in each parish, the number of Dissenting families is returned, except in certain cases where it is specified that persons, not families are meant. As has been said, the more familiar denominations that owe their origin to John Wesley's preaching, had not then come into existence. And the sects mentioned here are Anabaptists or Baptists, as they are now more commonly called, Presbyterians, and Independents, Quakers who were then more numerous than now, and Papist or Popish families, as Romanists are here styled. A few others are simply returned as Dissenters without specifying the denomination to which they belonged. One solitary family at Scawby has chosen to be described as Sabbatarian. Of all these the most numerous were the Anabaptists, though here again an element of uncertainty comes in with the number 200 returned from Spalding. To this the bishop has affixed a Query, as doubtful whether families or persons were meant, but he does not seem to have pursued the enquiry, or at least he has not recorded its result. As however the total number of families in Spalding was from 300 to 500, we shall not be far wrong in taking these figures to represent 200 persons, or about 50 families, which itself is an unusually large proportion. Allowing for this the Anabaptist families numbered 484 besides 98 single persons: Quaker families which came next were 204, with 40 single persons: Presbyterians, 167 families, and 12 persons: Independents 19 families, and 8 persons: while Papist or Popish families amounted to 179 with 54 single persons, and 108 are returned simply as Dissenting, without specification of any sect. Altogether 1161 families and 207 individuals are returned as Non-conforming, that is about one in thirty of the total population. Special mention may be made of Boston, where out of a population returned at intervals as "Fam. 650 . . . Nearly 700 . . . About 600," it is added "Dissenters 1 to 15 or 16; most Presbyterians and Independents; next Anabaptists ; few Quakers." Later the return is "Dissenters of all sorts, about 1 to 16 Church people." Later still Bp. Wake has added, "A fourth part, W."¹ At Gainsborough there were between 30 and 40 Dissenting families, of whom 8 or 10 were Quakers. Later, in 1721, the Return is 773 Families, of which 60 are Dissenters, 13 Quakers, the rest chiefly Independents. At Epworth where Mr. Wesley was Rector, there were two Anabaptist and one Quaker Conventicles, and out of 300 to 340 families there are said to be "above 80 persons Dissenters, about 60 Anabaptists, the rest Quakers."

At this time Dissenting Meeting-houses—Conventicula—or Conventicles as they are here termed, had to be licenced, and their existence in any parish is noted in the Returns. It will be convenient to group them here as showing how they were spread throughout the county.

Thus Anabaptist Conventicles, 55 in all, are returned from Aslackby, Asterby, Blyton, Boston (2), Bourne, Brant-Broughton, Carlton-le-Moorland, Clee, Croft, Crowle, Denton, Donington on Bain, Elsham, Epworth (2), Fleet (None, 1718), Fulstow, Gosberton, Haconby, Halton-Holegate (2, but meet not above once or twice a year), Haugham, Haxey, Hemswell, Hogsthorpe, Horkstow, Huttoft, Hykeham, Keelby, Killingholme, Kirton-Lindsey, Leasingham (2), Legbourne, Lincoln St. Benedict's, Lusby, Lutton, Maltby, Marsh-chapel, Melton-Ross, Messingham, Metheringham, Mumby, Owston, Skirbeck, Sleaford, Great Steeping, Tydd St. Mary, Trusthorpe, Waddingham, West Keal (1 Anab.), Whaplode, and Wyberton (2, sed raro vel nunquam conveniunt).

Quaker Conventicles, numbering 28, were found at Barnoldby, Beckingham, Belton (in Axholme), Bourne, Brant-Broughton, Burton-Stather (raro), Cowbit, Crowland, Epworth, Friskney, Gainsborough, Gedney, Kirkby-on-Bain, Leake, Lincoln St. Martin's, Louth (sometimes), Mumby, Partney, Sleaford (raro conveniunt), Great Steeping, Waddington, Wainfleet All Saints, Wainfleet St. Mary, Welbourn, Wintringham, South Witham, Wrangle (2, though there were only five Quaker families), and Wrawby w. Brigg.

The Presbyterian Conventicles, with whom the Independents are often mixed up were 14 at the following places:—Boston (or Indep.), Burton-Pedwardine, Coleby, Gainsborough (or Indep.), Holbeach, Immingham, Kirton-in-Holland, Lincoln St. Benedict and St. Swithin, Sempringham (in veteri Capella), Sleaford (raro conveniunt), Stamford St. Andrew and St. George, and Wrawby w. Brigg.

Besides these there were, or had been, 11 others, of which the denomination is not specified, viz., at Anderby (the Outfall), Billingham, Humberston (2), Ruskington, Scawby (sometimes), Skidbrooke (none for the last 3 years), Tathwell, Tetney, and Willoughton (none).

Of Papist or Popish Conventicles or Chapels, no more than 6 or 7 are mentioned—for the most part where some important family adhered to that form of faith. Thus at Blankney, where there were 8 Popish families, or as it is later expressed, 20 persons Papist, there was a Papist Chapel in Lord Widdrington's house. At Clixby near Caistor, there was a Papist Chapel in the house of Sir John FitzWilliam, to which many Papist resort. At Claxby, where one whole family and part of three others, total 14 persons, were Popish, and the widow of Thomas Markham harboured a nest of Priests; at Dunston, where Mr. Walpole Lord of the Manor was a Papist and had a seat; and at Sixhill, where there were 6 or 8 Popish families, there were Chapels or Conventicles, as they are indiscriminately called. At Irnham, then in possession of the Thimbleby family, a Conventicle of Papists is returned, with the addition—Preachings seldom. At Worlaby the Papists held meetings once a month, or thereabouts; while at Corby there seems to have been no Chapel, though there were as many as eleven Popish families, a later return being 4 or 5 Papist families, besides 4 or 5 Wives, whose husbands are Protestants and members of the Church of England. An interesting note is added to the mention of the well-known Church-yard Cross at Somersby, that before it the Papists came to perform their devotions.

The names of the Patrons appended to the benefices are not given with any particularity, and need little further remark. Separate Visitations were of course held of the Cathedral, of which Dr. Richard Willis, appointed in 1701, was Dean during nearly the whole of this period.¹ The only mention therefore that we have of the Dean and Chapter is as patrons of numerous benefices, which were commonly held in plurality by their Vicars-Choral. In the case of one of their parishes however, Irby, the return is "No Curate, nor Stipend," and the Dean and Chapter are "admonished to take on themselves the care of this parish, which is appropriated to the Vicars-Choral." As a result one William Green was appointed Curate; he was only a Deacon, and is returned as "ebriosus, amovendus," and in the end service was undertaken by the Curate of Orby, who was paid 5^s every other Sunday by the parish. Besides their collective patronage the Precentor was the patron of 6 Churches in Lincoln, while St. Paul's was in the gift of the Archdeacon of Lincoln, a patronage which he still retains. Various Prebendaries also presented to some 30 prebendal Churches, which have since, together with those attached to the Precentorship, been transferred to the Bishop, whose patronage has thus been nearly doubled.

The names of the Clergy serving in each parish are very fully entered, those of the first-named incumbents being usually prefixed with the title 'Mr.', while to their curates the inferior style of 'Ds.' or Dominus is accorded. Technically these terms represent the degrees of M.A. and B.A. respectively, but it is impossible to say whether they are strictly used in this sense here. In the case of the first incumbents the date of their ordination to the Priesthood is given, with the name of the ordaining Bishops, of whose names it will be convenient to append a Table. In later cases it has been thought sufficient to give only the date of their Institution, at which time this and other particulars would, no doubt, have been duly enquired into. In certain cases special notes of commendation or otherwise have been added by the bishops. Thus Mr. Richard Disney, who served Bloxholme and Scopwick, is described as "Vir probus et diligens." Mr. Anthony Smith, the Vicar of Gainsborough, is noted as "Vir bonus et sedulus," as he showed by having ¹ He held the Deanery together with the bishopric of Gloucester from 1715, and only resigned it on his translation to Salisbury in 1721. In 1725 he was further translated to Winchester.

Prayers daily in his Church. Mr. John Miller, Rector of Langton by Horncastle, is likewise pronounced in June, 1708, to be a good man, though he was non-resident, and lived in the county of Surrey. At Skirbeck the resident rector, Mr. Thomas Palmer, is styled "Vir probus et eruditus," while "Vir admodum bonus" is the praise given to Mr. Humphry Hyde, Vicar of Long Sutton, who though himself residing at Dowsby, managed to have Public Prayers twice daily at Long Sutton, though it is sad to hear that there was no congregation. Of Mr. John Fentiman, rector of Irby-on-Humber, who was aged 70 in 1712, it is recorded "Dum vires ferrent, ipse in Divinis administrandis diligens," and when later he had the help of a curate, he gave up all the income to him. Considering the miserably small endowments of most of the benefices, we cannot wonder that in three or four cases their incumbents are returned as burdened with debt, so that they were in hiding (se abscondit), and could not appear at the Visitation. This was the case with the incumbents of West Barkwith, Burgh (who however had departed in 1710), Metherringham, and East Torrington, while at North Thoresby the rector is returned as actually in prison in London for debt. Physical infirmities are also recorded in some few instances, as where the incumbent is noted as Blind, or "Non-compos," a bad instance of this last being at Burton-by-Lincoln, where the rector had been "sui non-compos" for thirty years past, the duty being performed by curates who lived in Sir Henry and Sir William Monson's household. It speaks well for the clergy of the period that out of their whole number only three cases of inebriety are recorded. We have already mentioned one, the curate of Irby, who was promptly removed. Another was the vicar of Upton and perpetual curate of Stow, who is doubtfully labelled as "Poeta : Ebriosus"; while the third, in whose case was no redeeming quality, was the rector of Swallow, described as "Pauper, ebriosus, et vix sui compos," in whose place, we are glad to add, a new rector was shortly afterwards instituted.

It was just at the commencement of this century that the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel was formed, and it is satisfactory to find certain of the clergy of the diocese taking part, more or less, in its beneficent work. Notably was this the case with the vicar of Sutterton, Dr. Evan Evans, D.D., who is stated to be in America, and of whom the historian of the Society tells us that he was sent by Bishop Compton of London to Philadelphia in 1700, where "his labours were so successful that congregations, consisting chiefly of persons brought over from the Quakers and other sectaries, soon joined the Church of England ; these he endeavoured to ground in the faith till they were formed into proper districts, and had Ministers sent over to them by the Venerable Society."¹ He died in Maryland in 1721, apparently retaining till his death his Lincolnshire benefice, which was left in charge of a curate. The same was the case with Mr. James Slater, Rector of South Hykeham, of whom we are told that he was in Virginia ; and presumably with Mr. Lawrence Payne, vicar of Frampton, who had been in partibus transmarinis for 14 or 15 years ; while Mr. Robert Baron, Vicar of Hogsthorpe and of Mumby, who is said under either parish to have "gone beyond sea," may possibly be the same who died in the service of the S.P.G. in Maryland in 1761.

Other clergy contrived to combine the office of Domestic Chaplain and residence in some nobleman's household with their parochial duties. Two at least were Army Chaplains, of whom Mr. John Masson, rector of Aswarby, "Capellanus Militaris," is returned as living in London or some military station, but later as residing in his parish for some part of the year; the other, Mr. George Smith, "Capellanus Bellicus," was also an absentee from his vicarage of Welton-by-Lincoln, which he left to be served by a Vicar-Choral from the Cathedral. Two others are noted as serving as Chaplains in the Navy; these were Mr. Joshua Smith, vicar of Sixhill, and Mr. Brian Hunt, vicar of Quadring. Each of these is styled "Capellanus Marinus," while the latter is more particularly described in the original returns of 1718 as having "gone as Chaplain to a Man of War in his Majesties Fleet."

Of all these parochial clergy perhaps the name best remembered now is that of the Rev. Samuel Wesley, father of the still better known John and Charles Wesley, who first was beneficed in this diocese as rector of South Ormsby in 1690, and who at this time held in plurality the neighbouring parishes of Epworth and Wroot in the Isle of Axholme. Of him it is here stated that he was frequently non-resident¹ as being in London, no doubt engaged on the publication of his literary works, and as Proctor for the clergy of the diocese in Convocation, to which honorable office he was elected in 1701 and 1710. There was Divine Service however at Epworth twice every Sunday, as well as on Feast-days and Wednesdays and Fridays, with Catechizing all the year, if the rector was at home, and Holy Communion as often as once a month. The income was the considerable one for those days of £160 p. ann. to which the rectory of Wroot, to which he was instituted on 6 April, 1722, added £60 more. It was on 9 Feb., 1708-9, that the memorable fire occurred in which Epworth Rectory was for the second time burnt down, and John Wesley, as a child of five, was providentially rescued from the flames. There is no mention here of this event, though several instances are recorded of parsonages being destroyed by fire, owing doubtless to the timber in their construction and their covering of thatch. It was later, but well within our period, in the winter of 1716-7, that the rebuilt rectory of Epworth became the scene of the supposed preter-natural noises and disturbances, which caused so much excitement at the time. It was in 1727-9 beyond our limits that John Wesley served as his father's curate in his two parishes, where a near neighbour was Dr. John Morley, D.D., Rector of Lincoln College, Oxford, who held the rectory of Scotton from 1711 to his death in 1731.

Less popularly known, but not less worthy of remembrance is the name of Laurence Echard, A.M., and F.S.A., who resided more than twenty years in Lincolnshire, chiefly at Louth, serving thence the two small livings of Welton and South Elkington. Here most of his several works were composed, including his History of England to the end of the reign of James I, published in 1718. He was installed as Prebendary of Louth 24 April, 1697, and held the Archdeaconry of Stow from 1712 to his death. He is referred to in these pages under Haugham, as "Archdn. Ed.," by Bp. Wake, whose chaplain he was. He ceased to reside in the diocese in 1722 on his presentation by George I, to the livings of Rendlesham and Sudborne in Suffolk, but died in Lincoln after all on 16 August, 1730, while on his way to Scarborough. He was buried in the chancel of the church of St. Mary Magdalen, but there is no existing memorial of him.

Our attention must needs be caught by the names of John Inett, John Stillingfleet and William Paley as they occur in the following pages, but it is for their names' sake only that we need dwell upon them. John Inett, Rector of Grainsby, 1710, and of Great Carlton, was son of the more famous John Inett, D.D., the author of several well-known devout and learned works, who was Precentor of Lincoln Cathedral from 1682 till his death in March, 1717-8, but who was beneficed in other counties, so that his name does not appear in these pages.¹

Similarly John Stillingfleet, who here appears as Rector of Beckingham, was the nephew, as his father, also John Stillingfleet, was the brother, of the celebrated Edward Stillingfleet, Bishop of Worcester, 1689-99. He succeeded to the rectory of Beckingham in 1688 on the death of his father who had held it from 1661, together with the rectory of South Hykeham from 1673, and the prebendal stall of North Kelsey from 1675.

Of William Paley, who appears here as Vicar of Elsham, 1704, and curate of Melton Ross, we can only say that if he was connected with his name-sake the well-known author of Paley's Evidences, who was Sub-dean of Lincoln from 1795 to 1805, it must have been as one of an earlier generation of the family.

We find the Bishop of Peterborough entered here as holding the united vicarages of All Saints and St. Peter's, Stamford, until 1718. This was Dr. Richard Cumberland, known as the author of several learned works, who held the bishopric from 1691 to 1718. But his connection with our diocese was confined to his appointment of a curate to do his duty in it.

Few names occur with more frequency amongst the incumbents of the diocese than that of the Rev. Thomas Cunington, who combined with his offices of Priest-Vicar, Succentor and Prebendary in the Cathedral, the charge of a surprising number of Chapter livings, so that we find Greetwell, Cherry-Willingham, Nettleham, Welton and Glentham, more or less simultaneously in his hands. To genealogists he is of interest as having married in his own church of Welton on 14 Nov., 1705, Jane Tournay, the heiress of that ancient Lincolnshire family which held the manors of Caenby and Glentham since 1340. In local history he cuts a somewhat undignified figure as the victim of the Lincoln mob, who in their riotous demonstration against the proposed removal of the spires from the cathedral towers in 1726, caught him in the Minster-yard and forced him to dance before the bonfire which they had kindled there. He must have been an elderly man at the time, and he died in 1734.

Worthy of note also for very different reasons is the name of Charles Mountague Bertie (Demy of Magdalen, 1714, and M.A., Oxon, 1718), who was instituted to the rectory of Uffington on 22 July, 1719. His was the only church in these two Archdeaconries in which the Lord's Supper was administered every Sunday, a fact sufficiently remarkable at a time when the usual practice was to administer it three or four times a year, and but thirty-two churches in all Lincolnshire had it as often as once a month. He was a cousin of the Hon. Charles Bertie, the patron by whom he was presented, from whom the present Earl of Lindsey is descended; but was himself a member of that younger branch of the Bertie family which, through a second marriage inherited the barony of Norreys and its estates, and was raised to the Earldom of Abingdon, the first earl being his grandfather. He died unmarried at Uffington on 11 August, 1744, and was buried there on August 14th. There is no memorial of him in the church in which he so long officiated, but we must not withhold here our due tribute to the memory of one who strove above his fellows to fulfill the duties of a faithful Parish Priest.¹

In every case the residence or non-residence of the incumbent is noted, with sometimes the reason for the latter, from ill-health or the like, and efforts to enforce residence, where possible, were evidently made by the bishops. Two main causes however rendered this impracticable; one of these was the absence of houses and the unfitness of many that still existed to meet the requirements of the 18th century, modest as these were compared with what is thought necessary now: the other was the poverty of so many benefices, which did not afford a living wage for a resident clergyman, and could only be served in conjunction with others equally poor.

From as many as 70 parishes "No house" (Nulla domus) is simply returned. These were Alvingham, Barholm, Barlings with Langworth, Binbrook St. Gabriel, Buslingthorpe, Castle Bytham, Castle Carlton, South Carlton, Cockerington St. Mary, Cotes Parva, Cotes by Stow, Cranwell, Crowland, Dalby, Digby (only a small one in which the parish clerk lives), Driby (rectory fell in the Civil War), Dunholme, Eagle, East Keal, Folkingham (though the vicar is admonished to reside in 1721), Frodingham, Goltho, Gunby, Hagnaby, Haugham, Hibaldstow, Holton-le-Clay, Howell (rectory house entirely demolished), Humberston, Hundleby, Huttoft, South Hykeham, Keelby, Kirmond, Kirkby Underwood, Knaith, Leasingham (no house except a cottage), Ludford Magna, Mablethorpe St. Mary, Mareham on the Hill, Markby, Marton, Newton-on-Trent, Nun-Ormsby, Mid-Rasen, North Reston, Riseholme, Saltfleetby St. Peter, Scothern, Scafield, Skegness, Skinnand, Snarford, Somerby, Spilsby, Stainfield, Stainton-le-Vale, Stallingborough, Stickford, Stow, Surfleet, Long Sutton, Syston, Tallington, Theddlethorpe All

¹ In the Visitation Returns for 1721 he writes:—"The Sacrament is administered every Sunday. The number of Communicants in the Parish is about 231, 20 of which usually receive, and about 80 did communicate at Easter last. The Publick Service is read twice every Day in the week. Children are catechiz'd every Sunday during the time of Lent.—C. M. Bertie."

Saints, Thornton-Curtis, Thurlby (Graffoe), Torksey, Tydd St. Mary, Utterby, Woodhall, and Wyham w. Cadeby.

From as many more the houses were returned as ruinous, or otherwise unfit for the incumbent's habitation, as the following list will show, as well as the bishop's anxiety to get the houses repaired, so that the clergy might reside on their benefices. At Alford and Aslackby the house was too small, and at the latter place unhealthy as well. At Anwick it was not yet repaired, and a tenant lived in it, while the house at Aubourn consisted of only 2 rooms. At Barnetby the house was not yet fit, but the vicar promised to repair; at Benington in Holland, it was unsuitable and distant from the church, and at Briggsley the rectory was nearly destroyed. At Bradley, where the rector was non-resident from 1701 to 1709 by reason of the dilapidations, in 1710 the benefice was placed under sequestration for the repair of the manse. At North Cotes the rectory-house was in ruins, but the bishop notes that the non-resident rector, Scot, "is rich enough to repair," and in 1721 he is able to add that it is "now in good repair." At Cockerington St. Leonard's the vicarage had fallen down; at Covenham St. Mary the rectory was too small; while at Cowbit the curate resided in a hired house propter tenuitatem et sordes domus Eccles'. At Croft the house was ruinous, and the rector was admonished promptly (mature) to repair; later the return is A new house built, though this subsequently is corrected into Not altogether new. At Friskney the vicarage was unhealthy; at Goulceby very inconvenient; at Gosberton too small. At Grimoldby "A new house" is returned, but the bishop marks this with a Query, and later adds decidedly Mentitur, it is a lie, and enquires again subsequently "whether it be built, and whether he resides." At Hatcliffe the rector Timothy Fenton, A.M., who was only instituted in February, 1721, promised to build in the summer of 1722: he resided, but not in the rectory, part of which was demolished. At Habrough also the vicar resided in the parish, but not in the vicarage which was ruinous. At Horsington the rectory was built this year, 1713. At Hough the vicarage was not large enough; and at Kelstern it was very small, and though the vicar had built a new house, this had been burnt down. At Wold Newton the rectory was in ruins; at Pinchbeck too small and without water; at Rauceby unfit; and at Partney unsuitable for a family defectu Glebæ, either from want of glebe, or from some defect in the soil. At Saltfleetby All Saints the rectory was returned as ruinous, but a new house was subsequently built; and the same was the case at Sibsey, where the vicar had laid out £600 on the vicarage, and now resided. At Sotby the house had become entirely dilapidated, but the rector was re-building it in 1721. At North Somercotes the vicarage was too small and unsuitable on account of water underground, and the vicar promises to build anew in 1712. At Spalding the house was in ruins, and scarcely repairable; while at Stainton by Langworth the vicar had "built a new vicarage, the best in this neighbourhood," and the Rector of Stenigot would reside as soon as the house was repaired. So at Great Steeping the vicarage needed repair, and Sutterby rectory had fallen into ruin, while at South Stoke, or Stoke Rochford, the rectory had been burnt down, and the same was the case with Sutterton vicarage, which had not yet been restored, the vicar, Dr. Evan Evans, being in America. More hopeful were the returns from Swallow, where a new rector will reside when the house is repaired ; from Theddlethorpe St. Helen's, where the rector was building a new house in 1718 ; from North Thoresby, where he would reside as soon as the house which was in ruins was repaired, and the same from Thornton le Moor, where however the repairs were not yet done in 1718. At Thornton by Horncastle the house was unfit ; at Thorpe (Bolingbroke) the vicarage had been demolished ; at Threckingham it was " very ruinous, only fit for a poor body to live in " ; while at Timberland it had been actually let by a previous vicar to a poor artificer, and at Toynton St. Peter it was " only a cottage let for 16s. or 20s. a year. At High Toynton the house was unsuitable, at Winceby too small ; and at Withcall the rectory was in ruins, and was to be rebuilt in 1721. These are all from the archdeaconry of Lincoln ; in the small archdeaconry of Stow the vicarage of Frodingham had entirely perished ; West Halton and Haxey had each licences to rebuild their glebe-houses, which in the latter case was done in 1718. The rectory of Manton is returned as now nearly repaired, and the same is said of Scawby vicarage in 1708, though the vicar did not actually come into residence until 1721.

These lists account for more than 100 parishes in which an incumbent's residence was impracticable for want of a house or its unfitness for habitation. In several instances we have seen that the bishops succeeded in getting repairs done so as to make the residence of the clergy possible. But in the great majority of cases such a course was precluded by the poverty of the benefices, which could neither afford the outlay necessary for house-building, nor provide a sufficient income to maintain a resident incumbent. In those days when tithes were paid in kind, it was naturally difficult to estimate exactly the revenue of a benefice, which necessarily varied from year to year according as the season for crops and stock was good or bad. But if we take the Real Value as given here, which was doubtless as true an estimate as each incumbent could make, we find no more than a dozen benefices in the whole county that reached or exceeded the value of £200 per ann. These were Algarkirk, which varied from £80 to £250 ; Beckingham, from £80 to £300 ; Great Cotes, £250 ; Fleet, £200 ; Gedney, nearly £200 ; Harlaxton, £250 ; Hougham w. Marston, vaguely returned as " beyond £80, scil. £300 " ; while West Rasen, Waddington, Washingborough, and Welbourn are entered as at most reaching £200 a year.

Some fifty others are returned as worth between £100 and £200 a year. All the rest, that is to say, as many as 550 benefices had an income of less than a £100 a year, and of these fully one-half had as little as £30 a year or less, descending as low as Brothertoft, which had neither minister nor endowment, and had service every other Sunday, or later once a month, the officiating minister being paid five shillings each time by the parishioners. Burgh on Bain in like manner had a church, but no curate, nor any means of sustaining one, all was consumed by the patron, a Papist. They had service as often as they could beg one from neighbouring ministers, and the same with Holy Communion. At this time the stipend of a curate in sole charge, as we should say, seems to have been from £20 to £30 a year, rising in some instances to as much as £40. It is evident therefore that these poor benefices without houses or incomes sufficient to maintain a resident clergyman could only be served by some neighbouring incumbent, who eked out his own insufficient income by acting as curate, often as sequestrator, of one or more equally indigent parishes. In such cases the stipend was commonly from £5 to £10 a year, and the distance is carefully noted by the bishop, who sometimes objects to it as too great. To mention some instances which first come to hand :—Mr. Richard White, rector of Authorpe, is returned as serving also the churches of Brinkhill, Burwell, Calcethorpe, Hagworthingham, and Swaby ; we can hardly think that he had charge of all these at one time, but if he had, his stipend from the whole amounted only to £86 a year. Burwell, indeed, had been previously held in conjunction with Legbourne and Muckton and South Thoresby, while in 1711 it was grouped with Castle Carlton and Little Carlton, Grimoldby, and Stewton, the joint incumbent residing at the earlier date at Muckton, and at the later at Grimoldby. Mr. Matthias Symson, rector of Moorby, served also Bardney, Apley, Stainfield, and Gautby ; at Bardney, the most important of these parishes, it is stated that he was curate with the bishop's licence at the petition of the parishioners. Mr. Henry Crask, instituted to the rectory of Brauncewell in 1717, resided in Sleaford, but managed to do duty not only at Brauncewell, but at the neighbouring villages of Anwick and Ruskington. At Burgh, Mr. Burnet, the vicar, kept the school, and with the help of a curate served the three churches of Burgh, Gunby, and Winthorpe ; his stipend as Schoolmaster was £10, and his three benefices produced £85, but as out of this he had to pay his curate, who resided at and served Orby also, it is no wonder that we find that the poor man was over-burdened with debt, and had departed. We have already mentioned the case of Mr. Thomas Cunington, who held so many benefices in the gift of the Dean and Chapter in conjunction with his post of Vicar-Choral in the Cathedral ; but such instances of plurality occur on every page, and are far too numerous to specify here.

The state of the city of Lincoln itself at this time is remarkable, and presents a great contrast to its present condition. Though it was beginning to show signs of recovery, the number of families inhabiting it having increased by no less than 240 families within the period with which we are concerned, it was still in a state of decay, and it had not yet been found necessary or possible to rebuild the many churches destroyed in the Civil War. As to the Minster we are, of course, told nothing, but of the city churches, St. Peter-at-Arches¹ was the only one in which Divine Service was regularly and decently performed. Here under the incumbency of Mr. Gilbert Bennet, who himself was non-resident, living at Reepham, which he held in plurality with Cherry Willingham, but who had a curate at St. Peter-at-Arches, there were Prayers on Sunday morning, and every day in the year twice ; also on Sunday afternoon there was a sermon, and a great concourse of people to it, because there was no other sermon below hill. At St. Mary-le-Wigford there was service once every Sunday, except that once a month they went to St. Peter's, probably St. Peter-at-Gowts', where their vicar officiated monthly. On the other hand, at St. Benedict's, there was service only once a month, which later was reduced to eight times a year ; at St. Mark's only three or four times a year ; while at St. Margaret's it is returned, "Divine Service never celebrated here, nor within the memory of man." At St. Martin's there was Service three times a year when the Eucharist was administered, so that the parishioners might comply with the requirements of the law. At St. Mary Magdalen there was Service every Sunday afternoon, but only three times a year in the morning for the celebration of the Eucharist. At St. Paul's also there was Service every Sunday afternoon, and at St. Peter-at-Gowts' once a month. But at St. Botolph's, St. Michael's, St. Nicholas, St. John's, and St. Peter in Eastgate, the return is, "No Church here," while at St. Swithin's the earlier return which says "The Church unfit," is altered later into "None." It was this churchless condition of so many of the city parishes, together with their diminished population, which enabled Mr. Anthony Reid, who was also Priest-Vicar and Master of the Grammar School, to take charge at once of St. Mark's, St. Margaret's, St. Mary Magdalen, St. Mary-le-Wigford, St. Peter-at-Gowts', and St. Swithin's; while Mr. James Debia, who was Prebendary of Crakepole, served the cures of St. Botolph, St. Martin, St. Michael, St. Paul, and St. Peter in Eastgate, and in addition held the rectory of Boultham and the vicarage of Skellingthorpe. It is fair to add that Mr. Debia's income from his numerous benefices seems to have been little more than £53 per ann., and Mr. Anthony Reid's about £60. Mr. Debia lived throughout our period, but Mr. Anthony Reid, who was installed Prebendary of Welton Westhall, 24 August, 1711, died 1 April, 1714, aged 46, and was buried in St. Margaret's Church.

It was just at the commencement of our period that that act of royal justice towards the church, which is commonly known as Queen Anne's Bounty, took place. A special return of the value of each benefice was made for its purposes, and by it in 1707 all benefices under the value of £50 a year were at once discharged from the payment of First-fruits and Tenths, which had been exacted from them by the See of Rome, and which had been appropriated to the Crown under Henry VIII. Some 366 benefices in these two archdeaconries benefitted by this exemption, showing how poor they generally were.¹ The payments moreover from such better endowed livings as still remained in charge were given to the Governours of the Bounty to be employed for the benefit of the poorer benefices. We may already notice here the working of the Bounty Office in the augmentation by Lot, to the amount of £10 each, of the benefices of St. Martin's, St. Michael's, St. Paul's, and St. Peter-at-Gowts, in the city of Lincoln, and in the county of Cherry Willingham, North Hykeham, Stickford, and Willoughton. This mode of selection by lot was abandoned by the Bounty Office in 1716, and instances of its later system of making grants to meet local benefactions are found at Deeping St. James, Honington, Horbling, Osbournby, and Syston. Other grants, mentioned in Queen Anne's Bounty list, but not noted here, probably because not actually completed within our period, were Woodhall (1717), Walcot (1719), Gosberton (1720), Cranwell and Sapperton (1721), and Kirton in Holland (1722). We find also a few grants made by private benefactors in aid of benefices in which they were interested, as at Aubourn, where Sir Christopher Nevile had given £4 a year in tithes (sometimes more) in augmentation of the vicarage : at Hibaldstow, where £5 a year was given by the Sub-dean as Patron : at Humberston, where £40 was given by Mr. Humberston : at Huttoft, augmented with £5 a year by Bp. Gibson himself : Kingerby, where £3 a year was left for three sermons and the poor : Willoughton, where £5 a year was voluntarily added by Lord Castleton : Wragby, where Sir Edmund Turnor had left an augmentation of £40 to the Vicarage on the condition of Prayers being read in the chapel which he had built there twice a day : and Wrawby with Brigg, where £3 a year had been given by David Atkinson in 1703 to a minister who should preach in Brigg Chapel every Lord's day, and read Prayers there daily.

We may remember that at this time, owing to the inadequate means of artificial lighting and heating, evening services were practically unknown, and it is somewhat surprizing, considering the prevalence of plurality, to find so many churches returned as having Services twice, or even once every Sunday. Boston stands by itself as having three Services on Sundays in summer ; while many parishes had to be content with a Service every other Sunday, or once in three Sundays, or even once a month. Grimsby itself had at first Service twice every other Sunday, which later was altered into once every Sunday, and sometimes twice. Owing also to the want of means of lighting Services were held less often in winter than in summer. Frequently the distance of neighbouring churches which the people could attend "on the other part of the day" is mentioned, and there was not apparently the same disinclination then for the parishioners of one church to attend Divine Service at another as exists at present, since it is commonly stated in such cases that there is the same congregation at each church ; or that the vicar and people on the other part of the day attend the other church. Though Services on Sundays were necessarily few, yet it is frequently added that there was service on feast-days, and on the 4th and 6th days of the week, that is on Wednesdays and Fridays,—the last especially in Lent. Daily Service on the other hand was seldom held, the instances being so few that we may enumerate them. These were at Barkstone (Twice on Sunday, and twice every day in the week), Belton (Daily in Lord Brownlow's Chapel, twice on feasts and on Wednesdays and Fridays ; and when the family are absent, twice in the Church), Corby (twice on Sunday, and once daily), Crowland (where at least they were called together by the sound of the bell each day), Denton (service every day), Gainsborough (Prayers daily), Grantham (Public Prayers twice daily, except on Saturday, then once on account of the Market), Harlaxton (Prayers daily in the church . . . Once every day, twice on Saturday, 1718, 1721), Irnham (once daily, if there is a congregation), Lincoln St. Peter at Arches (every day in the year twice), Louth (twice on Sunday and every other day), Little Ponton (Prayers daily here, or at Stroxtun), Ropsley (Prayers daily), Sleaford (Prayers daily ; there being a special endowment of £20 for reading prayers in the Church to the poor of the Hospital), North Somercotes (twice daily, 1718), Spalding (now prayers twice every day), Long Sutton (Public Prayers twice daily, but no Congregation), Trusthorpe (twice every day), Witham on the Hill (once nearly every day), Wragby (Service twice daily at the Hospital, Sir Edmund Turnor having left an augmentation of £40 to the vicarage on this condition), similarly in Wrawby parish there was Service daily in Brigg Chapel, owing to a bequest of £3 p. ann. by David Atkinson to the minister for this purpose. It is not mentioned here under Uffington, but the rector, Mr. Bertie, returns in 1721, that Public Service was read there twice every day in the week.

Though there are signs of the urgency of the bishops for more frequent services, far the most stress was laid by them on the practice of Catechizing. As to this the Visitation enquiries were most searching and persistent, and the replies most varied and detailed. Under more or less pressure from the bishop it was a general practice in almost every parish, at least throughout Lent, and in many cases throughout great part of the year besides. In several of the smaller parishes however the incumbent makes return that there were no catechumens, which may easily have been the case, or that none were sent, or that though often invited none came. Sometimes it was returned that they were catechized during the week in school, and at Glentham the much-beneficed vicar, Mr. Cuning-ton, asserted that as he held more than one living, he was exempt, and it was the parish clerk's duty to catechize.

In contrast to this insistence on Catechizing is the little attention paid to Holy Communion. In the great majority of churches this was administered only three or four times a year, and the number tends to diminish rather than to increase. Even churches where other services were most frequent were content with five or six celebrations in the year. At St. Peter-at-Arches, the one church in Lincoln in which other services and sermons were regularly held, the eucharists decreased from six to four in the year. The only apparent attempt on the bishop's part to increase the number is at Woodhall, where instead of two yearly celebrations it is entered that the incumbent promises three. Out of the 627 parishes in the two Lincolnshire archdeaconries, in only 32 was Holy Communion administered as often as once a month, mostly on the first Sunday in each month. These were Alford (once a month and twice at Rigsby), Boston (besides stated times when it was administered twice), Bourne, Burton-by-Lincoln (besides Greater Feasts and Good Friday . . . Every month when Sir Wm. Monson's family is in the country), Burton-Coggles, Castle Bytham, Cowbit (the first Sunday in each month, if there is the proper number), Denton, Epworth, Fishtoft, Frampton, Frieston, Gainsborough, Gosberton, Grantham (and three greater feasts), Harlaxton, Haxey, Holbeach (besides the three greater feasts), Horn-castle, Kirton-in-Holland, St. Mary-le-Wigford, Lincoln (and on the three greater feasts), Louth, South Ormsby, Sibsey, Spalding, Stamford St. Mary (all these also on the three great feasts), Long Sutton (and on stated feasts), Swinstead (at first monthly, later 5 or 6), Swayfield (every month, later 4), Tydd St. Mary (and on three feasts), Toynton St. Peter and All Saints (in one or other church), Waddington (besides the three feasts), Wragby (from 8 to 12). Uffington stands alone among all the churches of Lincolnshire in the increase of its celebrations of the Lord's Supper from the first Sunday in each month to every Sunday in the year.

No formal enquiries as to Sermons were made for these Visitations, and it is only incidentally that we have mention of them, as at St. Peter-at-Arches, Lincoln, already quoted, where the afternoon sermon on Sunday was the only one in the city below hill. At Barrow there was a lecture on Sunday afternoon founded by Sir J. Nelthorp, and at Boston a lecture-ship worth £90 a year. At Billingham the vicar states that he preaches monthly in Walcot Chapel, while the vicar of Castle Bytham returns his preaching in Holywell Chapel on Sunday afternoon as a reason for not catechizing at Castle Bytham, and the Vicar of Horncastle explains that he preaches catechetically. At Binbrook St. Mary the salary of the curate, a deacon, is stated to be 10s. a sermon. At Gosberton there were prayers every other Sunday, with a sermon either there or at Surfleet. Week-day lecture-ships had been founded at Grantham and Stamford as well as at Boston, and endowments had been given in land or money for preachers or for single sermons on special days at Barton-on-Humber, Brigg, Gedney, Gt. Gt. Gt. Kettlethorpe, Kingerby, Long Sutton, West Torrington and Wootton.

Much the same was the case with the churches themselves. No formal return as to their fabric or condition seems to have been required, but mention is occasionally made of them, for the most part of their ruin or demolition, as a reason why no services were held. We have already noted the church-less condition of five parishes in the city of Lincoln, while in several others Divine Service was held only a few times in the year. Besides these at Aby the church had been demolished in the Civil War, and the parishioners went to Belleau. At Bonby there was a query, whether the lord of the manor and freeholders or their tenants be not obliged to re-build the church steeple, which is down ; though happily it is added, "it is now built, 1718." At Castle Carlton a licence was issued, 30 June, 1707, to demolish and build the church and chancel. At Horsington it is returned, "The Church has been ruinous for several years ; they meet in a chapel ; the rector has built or is about to build the Tower." At Humberston the church was not yet built, at Hungarton there was none, and at North Hykeham the chapel was demolished. At North Elkington a commission ad contrahendam ecclesiam was issued by Bp. Gibson, 30 May, 1716. At Kirmond the vicar, Mr. Sharp, had complained by letter in 1709 that Sir Edmund Turnor had pulled down a stately church, and carried the bells to Wragby, and built a small church in its place, but the bishop adds that upon examination it appeared that what Sir Edmund had done was by licence from the bishop, and that he had augmented the vicarage from £10 to £20 a year. The church at Ludford Parva was demolished, but the parishioners were able to frequent the church of Ludford Magna within 450 yards of their demolished church. At East and West Ravendale the west chapel had fallen. At Saleby the church was falling into ruins, but was returned as repaired in 1718, while at Skinnand the church was in ruins, and has continued so ever since. At Sutterby the chancel needed repair, and at Swaby the church was small and sordid, the old one having been destroyed by Sir Henry Vane. At Tattershall, where the beautiful, but sadly ill-used, cruciform church is known to all, it is said that there is no church, only a chapel lately repaired by the Impropiator ; but there were five bells, as there are still. Walmsgate church had been destroyed, and the parish united to Burwell, while at Woolthorpe the church was burnt down during the Civil War ; the parishioners had a chapel but it was too small.¹

Some few instances of repair and rebuilding may be noted in the foregoing list ; we can only add a few more cases in which any care for the beauty and decoration of churches was shown. These were at Belton, where the church had been much adorned by Lord Brownlow ; at Lutton Chapel, the native place of Dr. Busby, who had spent £300 on its adornment and on vessels for the Holy Sacrament. Muckton Church had been much ornamented by Sir Martin Lister, deceased ; and at South Somercotes the rector, Mr. Rapier, who resided at Saleby, had expended upwards of £100 on repair of the church and chancel.

Amongst the Charities returned naturally the most frequent are Doles to be distributed in bread or in money among the Poor, while lands or rents assigned for the repair of the Churches are also not uncommon. Besides these there were a certain number of Schools, in which endowments were provided for the salaries of one or more Masters, or for the instruction of a fixed number of Poor Children. Such endowed Schools—Grammar Schools or Public Schools, as they are called—existed at Alford (£60), Asterby (£30), Barlings (£10-£11, by Sir Thomas Skipwith), Long Bennington (40s.), Billesby (£5 for ten poor boys), Billingborough (£11), Bolingbroke (Grammar, £10), Boston (Public, £30 and £20 : Another for Reading and Writing, £10, and a third for Boys and Girls), Bourn (£30-£35), Butterwick (£60), Caister (Public, £26 and £14), Carlton (Great, Little and Castle, £20), Corby (Grammar, £20), Deeping (Market, £12 or £13), Enderby (Mavis, 30s.), Epworth, Ewerby (Public, £5 : £10, 1718), Faldingworth (£5), Folkingham (£10-£14), Gainsborough (with poor stipend, 10s. a year), Grantham (Public, with sufficient endowment ; and two Private Schools, endowed with £12 by Dr. Hurst), Grimsby (a Latin School, 20 marks), Hagworth-ingham (£8 13s. 4d.), Halton (West, £3 14s. 0d.-£6), Harmston (£20 by Sir Charles Thorold), Halton (charity, £6), Hibaldstow (lately endowed with £8), Holbeach (£40-£60), Horncastle (Grammar, £40), Hougham (endowed by Lady Thorold), Keelby (20s. for instructing Poor), Kelsey St. Mary (Free School by Lady Ayscough, £7 10s. 0d. for instructing 12 poor children), East Kirkby (Public, endowed with more than £16 after the deaths of Gregory Croft and Margaret his wife : Alive 1718), Kirkby-with-Tumby (£10 for instructing Poor), Kirton-in-Holland (Public, £26), Kirton-in-Lindsey (Public, £20, with Fellowships and Scholarships at Magdalene College, Cambridge), Laughton (Public, £20), Lincoln, St. Michael's (well endowed), St. Swithin's (Public, £26 13s. 4d., and £20), in the Diocese of Lincoln at the opening of the 18th century. The Bishop complains that "the chancels were wholly disused, and left in a more nasty manner than any cottager in the parish would keep his own house, or used for keeping school in, the seats, windows, and pavements being commonly broken and defaced." At Celebrations, of rare occurrence, the Holy Table was too commonly "brought down into the mid-aisle, and the elements delivered to the people in their seats over the heads of others, those who used their chancels being charged with Popery." The Precentor illustrates this dilapidated and neglected state of Lincolnshire Churches from the drawings made of them by Claud Nattes for Sir Joseph Banks at the close of the 18th century, and preserved at Revesby Abbey. Horsington Church, which is described above as "ruinous for several years," but where the Rector was about to build the tower is instanced as having reached the lowest depth of degradation, as only a long low thatched hovel with the casement windows of a mean cottage, and no pretence at a bell-turret, the single bell being supported on a frame under a little roof standing on four crooked poles. These drawings, however, belong to a later period than is dealt with here, and may be more properly referred to in a later volume of the Speculum, which carries on the survey of the Diocese to about 1784.

Louth (Public, £30 and £10, and A. B. C. School £10-£14), Ludborough (£7), Maltby (£14), Marsh Chapel (40s. for teaching 4 boys, 10s. lost; An Anabaptist woman now teaches), Moulton (Public, £80-£100), Navenby (£2 to the Parish Clerk for teaching children: Neglected by reason of age), Owersby (lately founded, £6-£11), Pinchbeck (School formerly endowed with £4, greater part lost, A. B. C. School with endowment of £2 5s. od. for 6 poor children), Great Ponton (endowment promised), Market Rasen (£17), Raithby (Free English School, £6), Ripplingale (Public, £8), Ropsley (School to be endowed shortly), Ruskington (£4 for instructing 20 poor children), Scawby (School lately endowed, 1712, £4 10s. od.), Sleaford (Public, £24), South Somercotes (Free School for N. and S. Somercotes, £10 a year), Spalding (Grammar, £35: A. B. C. School, £16), Spilsby Grammar, and two Charity Schools, 50s. for 7 Boys), Stamford, St. George (Grammar, £60, Charity School for 80 poor children), Stickney (Free School, £46), Stow £5-£12), Surfleet (A. B. C. School, £14), Long Sutton £25), North Thoresby (Public, £8), Waddington (£8), Wainfleet, All Saints' (School founded by William of Wainfleet with uncertain stipend, £13 from lands, to which Magdalene College adds £10 a year), Washington w. Heighington (Grammar, £20-£30: A. B. C. School, £5 10s. od.), Whaplode (£10 endowment and £10 added), Witham-on-the-Hill (£8 for instruction of 18 Boys), Wragby (Grammar, £20 and £10), Wrangle w. Brigg (£90-£100), Wroot (£10).

In addition to these Schools, which were supported by more or less adequate endowments, there were at least an equal number of what are termed Charity Schools, maintained by the clergy or by voluntary subscriptions. Schools of this description are mentioned at Ancaster, Ashby-by-Partney (10s. in books for poor boys), Aslackby, Authorpe (10s. in books for boys saying the Catechism best), Barkston (voluntary for 14 children), Barrowby (the incumbent paid for the education of 12 poor boys), Blankney (40 poor boys instructed in the Church at the expense of the Rector), Boothby-Pagel (Schoolmaster paid by the parishioners), Brant Broughton (Charity), Burton Coggles (at expense of the Lord of the Manor and the Minister), Cadney (£4 by the Lord of the Manor for teaching the poor), Carlton-le-Moreland (poor instructed at the expense of the Minister and a neighbour), Claypole (£5 for 10 poor boys), Colsterworth (6 poor boys at the Rector's expense) Cranwell (£3 for instructing 9 children by Lady Thorold), Croft (Private School at the expense of the Minister and Churchwarden), Denton (Charity School, £10 voluntarily contributed), Digby 20s. for teaching 9 poor boys to read), Dorrington £1 or £2 for 6), Dowsby (£10, long given by Mr. Burrel and his ancestors), Edenham (Charity, maintained by the Duke of Ancaster), Fillingham (Charity, for 20 children), Fotherby (they cannot read, but the vicar promises to establish a school), Hale Magna (£12, during good pleasure, for 18 children), Heydour (two Charity Schools by Sir J. Newton), Horbling (£6 10s. od. for 10 boys), Immingham (two small legacies for instructing the poor), Ingoldsby (private), Lincoln (Charity Schools by subscription at St. Martin's, St. Paul's, St. Peter-in-Eastgate, St. Peter-at-Gowts', and St. Swithin's, at three of them it is specified that 30 children were taught), Nettleham (School for 12 boys established by the Bishop of Lincoln, now intermitted), Nocton (Charity School by Sir W. Ellis, during good pleasure), Potterhanworth (Charity for 30 children), Scrivelsby (Catechism taught in School), Skellingthorpe (Charity School by subscription, 15 children), Somerby w. Humby (a small School), Syston (6 children educated by Lady Thorold), Thorpe-on-the-Hill (a small Charity School for 6 children), Timberland (Charity School at the expense of Mr. Nevil King), Trusthorpe (Charity School not endowed), Waddington (Charity School for 16-20 children).

The foregoing lists may appear meagre, and the means of instruction inadequate as compared with the ubiquitous schools and compulsory education of to-day. But they at least show that some provision for teaching had been made by church-people in 130 places in Lincolnshire more than a hundred years before any attention was given to the subject by the State.

The last two articles of Bishop Wake's Advertisements addressed to his clergy in preparation for his primary Visitation, were—VI. Doth any Person of Quality or any Gentleman of Estate live, or hath any such a Seat or house within your Parish? and VII. Are there any Monuments of note in your Parish Church or Chapel? or what other Antiquities do you know of within your Parish? Such questions naturally called forth a variety of miscellaneous information, ranging from the residence of gentlemen in the parish and the amount of their estates, to the discovery of Roman coins and other remains, the existence of mediæval antiquities, and connection with religious houses, and the monuments in the churches, to disputes about tithes, and even to such a matter of geological interest as the finding of Astroites or Star-stones at Heapham. These observations occur under about 200 parishes, and the late Precentor Venables, who re-printed a list of these notes in the Diocesan Magazine of 1893, regarded them as "evidently the result of Bishop Wake's personal inspection." Some remarks, indeed, are plainly added by him, some signed with his usual initial W., but it is hardly credible that he should have personally visited so many parishes, and it is far more probable that, as in other parts of the Speculum, he merely noted down for future use such information as in answer to his request was furnished by the parochial clergy. These notes, as we have said, are of such a miscellaneous character and of so varied interest, that we can only recommend them to our readers' notice in the parishes under which they occur.

² There is evidently some mistake here, Haddington having probably been written instead of South Hykeham. The one Parish Church is, and has always been at South Hykeham, not at Haddington, which is a church-less hamlet, partly in the parish of S. Hykeham, partly in that of Aubourn. Though it is here stated that there is no Glebe, yet the extent of Glebe, both in S. Hykeham and Haddington, is duly set out in the Terriers of this date, and 83 acres are still attached to the Rectory. The grave-yard of the Chapel at North Hykeham, which was dedicated to St. Leonard, and which Bp. Wake here notes as Demolished, still remains, but it has passed into private hands, and the present church of All Saints stands on a different site.

APPENDIX II.

BISHOP GIBSON'S VISITATION RETURNS, JUNE, 1718.

Article 12.—Have any Publick Penances been performed in your Church since the last Visitation? Do you know of any Commutations of Penance made by any of your Parish within the same Time? By whom was it done? And for what Money?

Replies, Archdeacons of Lincoln & Stow,
(All others being in the Negative).

ANCASTER.—There hath not any Public Penance been performed, but I am informed 2 men have commuted, viz. Thomas P. and Samuel B., but what money paid, I know not.

Sa. Forster, Curate of Ancaster.

BARDNEY.—No Public Penance. One Commutation for ante-nuptial Fornication. Done by Mr. Chancellor for Three Pounds, as I take it.

Matthias Symson.

BARROW.—One Publick Penance hath been performed. One Commutation hath been made by one John G., before y^e Chancellor for Six Pounds and Ten Shillings, as it is reported.

Michael Doughty, Vic. of Barrow.

BELCHFORD.—There hath been one for Infamous, Scandelous, and Slanderous Words.

Wm. Cole, Rectr.

BOLINGBROOKE.—None, and I pray y^e Behaviour of my Parish may be such that they may not deserve y^e Censure of y^e Church.

J. Bradley, Rr.

BOSTON.—One only Penance that I can call to mind, which was for Defamatory Words; I know not of any Commutations.

Edw. Kelsall, Vicar of Boston.

CARLTON-SCROOP.—There has been no Publick Penance performed; One Commutation, but what his . . . I don't know,—is named Rich. B.

CLAYPOLE.—Publick Penance hath been performed in the Church since the last Visitation by Martin N. and Mary N. for the Lawless Liberty they tooke to themselves before their Marriage.

COLSTERWORTH.—We have had no penance or commutations. But we have an Excommunicated Person who sets the Law at Defiance. I meet with great discouragements in the discharge of my duty by reason of the Laws being not put in due execution against Immorality, Profaneness, and Sabbath-breaking. The impunity of the common enormity of the Parish makes it scandalous [sic] and a by-word to all that are round about us.

W. Perkins, Rr.

CORRINGHAM.—Commutations of Penance by John A. of Summerby, Farmer, and John D., of Great Corringham, Yeoman. The sums I know not.

Fr. Knight, Vicar of Corringham.

FRISKNEY.—Since y^e last Episcopal Visitation y^e Penance of Robert Y. was commuted, who paid Mr. Smith Newell, son of y^e present Chancellor Four Pounds : As likewise was y^e Penance of Tho. F., who paid Mr. Official Cawley Four Pounds, Six Shillings, and Hamond y^e Apparitor £1 without any benefit to y^e Parish.

Wm. Cooper, Vic. of Friskney.

HAREBY CUM BEASBY.—No Publick Penances or Commutations of Penance have been made here these 12 years that I have known this Place.

Rich. Thomson, Rr.

HAXEY.—Some publick penances have been performed for Fornication before Marriage since y^e last Triennial Visitation.

Jos. Hoole, Vic. de Haxe.

HOLBEACH.—We have had no public Penances since I came to this cure, neither do I know of any Commutations. But I have presented formerly some persons (they were poor indeed) for fornication, but I could never bring them to Public Penance.

Geo. Arnett.

HOUGHAM AND MARSTON.—Whereas some time y^e last year upon Complaint made against one Zebedee Jessop for Scandalous Words, your Lordship's Chancelor ordered him Penance, and to make Acknowledgment of his fault before competent Witnesses in y^e Chancel of Hougham Church, he the said Zebedee Jessop did accordingly make such Acknowledgment of his fault at the time and place and in the manner appointed in my Presence, of which I then made a Return in due forme to your Chancellor. I know of no Commutations of Penance since y^e last Visitation.

Rich. Knowles, Rector.

KELSTERNE.—None at either Place (Kelsterne and Ludford Parva). But I know of Twenty Pound exacted for Commutation not far off ; And upon Application made to me with great grief, I writ to a certain Person to be content with Five Pounds. But nothing could be abated, which I think much worse than the Taxatio Camerae Apostolicæ.

T. Bernard.

LINCOLN, ST. MARY MAGDALEN.—A Penance was enjoyed, but not performed, his Majesty's Act of Grace being Pleaded.

John Peckard.

MARKET-DEEPING.—We have had no public Penances nor any Commutations that I know of, tho' we have had such who deserved them, but in regard they are very poor people the Officers of the Ecclesiastical Courts take no notice of them.

A. Borradaile, Rr. de Market Deeping.

OWSTON.—No ; the King's pardon prevented any such performed.

PINCHBECK.—There has been no public Penance, though much desired. Many notorious offenders have commuted since the last Visitation, but I can't tell for what sums ; of them Robt. H. and Rebecca his wife who was brought to bed the next day after marriage, and some others, as John W. and one Mary R. who cohabit together and have had two or three children, and yet have never been married, and being poor they pass with impunity, tho' they have been duly presented. There is nothing so embarrasses the discharge of our duty, and does so much mischief as those Commutations ; they give great offence to good people, and discourage the Churchwardens from making Presentments.

Alex. Barker, Vicar.

SALEBY.—I presented one Barbary G. for a bastard Child, layd by her to Robt. S., single man, since run away, and I earnestly desire that Penance may bee order'd with some severity to y^e said Barbara G., and in Saleby especially in y^e manner to chastise her impudence.

J. Rapier, Vic. de Saleby, June 12, 1718.

SAXBY (Lincoln).—There has been Publick Penance perform'd in my Church since the last Bishop's Visitation (viz. by Tho. R. and Elizabeth now his wife).

SCAMBLESBY.—Two persons have done Penance, each of them within the Church.

SKIRBECK.—Since y^e last Episcopal Visitation Three persons have perform'd Penance, two for Incontinency before marriage, y^e other for fornication.

Tho. Palmer, Rr. of Skirbeck.

SPANBY.—There hath been a Commutation of Penance by your Lordships Chancellor since y^e last Visitation, but for what money I know not.

STICKFORD.—I. Yes, by John L. of Stickney. 2 and 3, No.

STICKNEY.—One Wm. L. performed Publick Penance on the Lord's Day in the year of or. Lord, 1718.

Edw. Greathead, Cur.

NETHER TOINTON.—My Lord, there was a public Penance in this Church upon Candlemas Day last past.

Wm. Cole, Rr.

TYDD ST. MARY.—We have had no publick penances performed in our Church but only one person about 2 years agoe did penance for fornication.

Tho. Adderley, Curate.

UFFINGTON.—One Woman for Bastardy stood in Albis through the Pious sentence and Prudent care and conduct of your Venerable Chancellour. And I believe the like Instance can be given in the memory of man in the Deanery of Nesse. She performed her Penance with great signs of Repentance, and being very Poor, the Chancellour forgave her all his fees.

ULCEBY (Calcewaith).—One only Publick Penance since y^e last Visitation, which was in y^e year 1715. I know of no Commutation.

W. Thompson, Rect. of Ulceby c. Fordington.

WELBY.—There have not any public pennances been performed. I am informed one hath commuted, viz. Charles H., but what money he paid I know not.

Sa. Forster, Rect. of Welby.

WRANGLE.—There has been one Publick and one Private Penance performed since y^e last Visitation. The latter of which was obtained chiefly at my own Request, upon y^e account purely of ye more than ordinary Sorrowful Acknowledgment of y^e Aggressours, which I hereby faithfully assure y^e Lordshipp should have never been by me interceded for, but on account of y^e aforesaid Reasons which I humbly submit to y^e Lordshipp, and trust they may for this time only be favourably accepted.

Rich. Bailey, Vic. of Wrangle.

WRAWBY.—To this [Commutations] I can give no answer, for y^e Court keeps us in y^e Dark about all such matters.

VISITATION RETURNS, 1721.

ALGARKIRK.—A notorious fornicator has been deny'd y^e Communion for near three-quarters of a year last past, and tho' the Court has had due Notice of the same, no Penance has been enjoyn'd. So that I believe now y^e Statute is Pleased.

Basil Beridge, Rector of Algarkirk.

APPLEBY.—No publick Penance. Commutation of penance for fornication between Henry H. and Jane L. hath been made by the Chancellor (as y^e said Henry tells me) for Five Pounds.

John Holland, Vicar of Appleby.

BASSINGTHORPE.—One Publick Penance. I know of no Commutation.

John Fisher, Vicar.

BELTON (Stow).—There hath been only one Publick Penance perform'd in our Church since your Lordship's last Visitation, by Thomas M. and Eleanor R. for Incontinency before marriage.

John Morris, Curate.

BENNINGTON.—One Public Penance perform'd by Edward C. and Barbara his wife. No Commutations that I know or heard of.

Edw. Guy, Vic. de Bennington.

BICKER.—No Penances are ever performed in my Church. But one Henry D. having been presented for fornication, commuted for about Three Pounds, but the Woman being poor remains unpunished. My Lord, as things are carried on by Ecclesiastical Officers, I see no encouragement given either to Us to Present, nor any Necessity even for y^e Churchwardens so solemnly to oblige themselves to do it. In my parish both Incest and Polygamy, tho' duly Presented, have pass'd to all appearance unpunished. I was credibly inform'd indeed that even the Apparitor cou'd come with an air of Authority and extort something of a Fee from y^e Incestuous Person, tho' poor; but I know of no other Penalty inflicted on account of his, or almost any other Crime: they that have wherewithal to do so being oblig'd to commute, and they that have not being conniv'd at here. I am, Your Lordship's most Dutiful and respectful Servant,

Benj. Hinckesman, Vic. de Bicker.

BURTON-STATHER.—We have no penances performed since your last Visitation, and I never heard of any Commutation of Penance. Our Chancellor, who is our Official likewise, is a worthy Gentleman, and I daresay would scorn to suffer anything of that nature where he is concerned, if he knew of it.

Henr. Hargraves, Vicar of Burton-Stather.

CADNEY.—One publicke Pennance performed in y^e Church. No Commutation that wee knowe of.

John Lee, Vicar.

EPWORTH.—There have been two Penances at least in Epworth Church since the last Triennial Visitation: one from Haxey, the other of this parish, for ante-nuptial fornication.

Sam. Wesley, Rr. de Epworth.

FILLINGHAM.—There has been Publick Penance perform'd in my Church by W. Smith of Hemswell, and I believe Geo. H. of my parish commuted for about 4 Guineas.

Adam Lugg, Rr. of Fillingham.

FLIXBURGH.—We have had one Penance, but no Commutation of Penance that I know of.

John Old, Curate of Flixburgh.

FRODINGHAM.—We have had two that have done Penance since your last Visitation, but no Commutations of Penance that I know of.

John Old, Curate of Frodingham.

GOSBERTON.—No Publick Penances, but a person or two have commuted, but whether since your Lordship's last Visitation, I cannot justly tell.

Tho. Townsend, Vicar.

HABROUGH.—No Publick Penances have been performed in y^e Church of Habrough since your Lordship's last Visitation. One woman, viz. Eleanor W. of y^r parish of Habrough was presented, as y^e Churchwarden then being told me, nigh two years since now for bearing a bastard child, but I never heard of any prosecution.

Sam. Dransfield, Curate.

HALTON-HOLGATE.—One publick Penance has been perform'd in this my Church since y^e Lordship's last Visitation. I know of no Commutations of Penance.

HARLAXTON.—Richard W. was enjoyn'd publick penance for Adultery, but being almost craz'd about it, and upon y^e point of leaving his family, he was admitted by y^e consent of y^e Archdeacon or Officer under him to perform penance at Church on a week-day in a more private manner, without any Commutation money; and I hope with good effect

Edward Saul, Rr. of Harlaxton.

HAXEY.—We have had some Public Penances since y^e Lordship's last Visitation; but I know not of any Commutations of Penance.

Jos. Hoole, Vicar of Haxe.

HEMSWELL.—William S. performed Penance for fornication.

John Towne, Curate.

KIRKBY ON BANE.—We have had no Publick Penances. What Commutations your Lordship's Chancellor can best inform you; for I know of none, except one William B. who purchased an Absolution privately from one of y^e Court Officers for fornication. But what he gave I could never hear; 'tis possible Mr. Wyatt Francis can tell. It is about two years ago.

John Disney, Rector, 25 Sept. 1721.

KIRTON-IN-HOLLAND.—There have been no publick Penances, nor Commutations y^t I know of, but there is one Person hath stood excommunicate these two years or more.

Sam. Farrow, Vr. of Kirton.

LEA.—A public one was ordered in my hearing by y^e Chancellor, but it did not come.

Geo. Ogle.

MOORBY.—Yes, one for ante-nuptial fornication.

Mat. Symson, Rr. de Moorby.

PANTON.—Onely one. I know not of any Commutation.

Barnabas Smyth, Rector.

PINCHBECK.—John W. and Mary R. widow, have done publick Penance since the last Visitation. I believe there has been Commutations of Penance, but am not certain.

Hen. Barker, Vicar.

SKIDBROOKE.—Wm. W. of this parish was presented by a woman that swore a Rape against him, but he never as yet did penance nor commuted as I heard.

SPILSBY.—One publick Penance has been perform'd in this my Church since your Lordship's late Visitation. I know of no Commutations of Penance within the said time.

SUDBROOKE.—There was one publick Penance in the Church about a year agoe of a man and woman for fornication. I know of no Commutation of Penance.

Abra. Bayly Rr. of Soldbrook.

SUTTON ST. EDMUND.—Stephen C. has done Publick Penance for fornication since the last Visitation; the woman and child are both dead.

Robt. Shaw, Curate.

SUTTON ST. JAMES.—No publick penance has been performed of late. An Order of Penance came down for one Philip W. for adultery with Mary H., but he would not obey the Order, and since is remov'd into the parish of Fleet.

Robt. Shaw, Curate.

THEDDLETHORP ST. HELEN'S.—I have had one Publick penance since your Lordship's last Visitation, but do not know of any Commutations.

WADDINGHAM.—Since your Lordship's last Visitation George T. of Grayingham did perform Publick Penance in our Church for committing fornication with Anne J. of the same place.

Edw. Parker, Rectr. of Waddingham.

WALESBY.—Yes, a penance was perform'd in Church by Catherine T. for a bastard child, and Philip G. y^e supposed father commnted for — Money with Mr. Howson.

John Browne, Rector.

WASHINGBOROUGH.—Yes, Two. I know of no Commutations of Penance made by any in my Parish.

Geo. Fairfax, Rr. de Washingburgh.

WICKENBY.—William A. perform'd pennance for ante-nuptial fornication.

George Jubb.

WILLOUGHTON.—There has Public Penance been once performed at Willoughton Church since your Lordship's Visitation.

Tho. Reith, Vicar of Willoughton.

WINTERTON.—Two Persons have performed Publick Penance since the last Visitation.

WITHERN.—There was a Publick Penance here performed by one of Theddlethorp parish ; it was for incest. There has been no Commutation that I know of since the last Visitation.

Will. Jones, Rector.

WRANGLE.—There have been no Publick Penances perform'd since your Lordship's last Visitation. There have been two Commutations of Penance made by two in my parish within the same time, viz. by one Thos. A. by name and Francis T., but for what money I know not.

Rich. Bailey, de Wrangle.

We may add two letters in which the Rev. Andrew Borradaile, Rector of Market Deeping and Vicar of Baston, takes occasion in 1721 to express to the Bishop his opinion of his parishioners at these two places. At Baston after stating, "I reside at Deeping where I have laid out near £400 in Repairs and Augmentation of the Manse. The Vicarage House here has but 4 rooms and those very mean, and I let the Clerk of the Parish live in it," he adds—"My Lord,—The people of Baston are most Tenants with some few Copy-holders ; they have been long used to defraud the Vicar, having generally had persons very easy to be imposed upon ; and they declare they had rather have a Broomstick in the Pulpit provided they paid nothing, than the best Preacher in the world that cost them anything. Your Lordship may easily judge of the rest."

Under Market Deeping he writes :—

“ My Lord,—The people inhabiting these Fen Towns are generally Copy-holders at the will of the Lord, very poor, yet very proud. They have a great value for their own country and a natural Aversion to all strangers. They are very cunning and selfish in their way of Dealing, but Stupid and opinionative in Religious Matters, love a great deal of Respect, but will give none, and what difficulties a Minister must meet with amongst such people I leave your Lordship to judge.

A. Borradale, Rectr. de Mark' Deeping.”

NOTE.—In connection with the notice on p. 175 of the Hermitage at Wroot it may be of interest to re-print here the account of it, written in 1727, twenty years before it was published in the Gentleman's Magazine :—“ The people of Hatfield and places adjacent have a tradition that in the middle of Hatfield waste there formerly lived an ancient Hermit, who was called William of Lindholme ; he was by the common people taken for a cunning man or conjurer, but in order to be better informed, I, accompanied with the Rev. Mr. Sam. Wesley and others, went to view the place, and after passing the morass found the hermitage or cell situate in the middle of 60 acres of firm sandy ground full of pebbles, on which was growing barley, oats and pease. There was likewise a well 4 or 5 yards deep, full of clear spring water, which is very remarkable, because the water of the morass is of the colour of coffee. Here is great plenty of furze bushes, and a variety of game, such as hares, foxes, kites, eagles, curlews, ducks, and geese ; there is no house nor cottage near it, and but a few old oaks, sallows and birch ; the house is a little stud-bound one, and seems ready to fall. At the east end stood an altar made of hewn stone, and at the west is the Hermit's grave cover'd with a freestone, that measures in length $8\frac{1}{2}$ foot, in breadth 3, and in thickness 8 [inches ?], which, with the help of levers we pull'd up and removed, and digging under found a tooth, a scull, the thigh and shin-bones of a human body, all of a very large size ; we likewise found in the grave a peck of hempseed, and a small oval piece of copper. It is difficult to imagine how such vast stones should be brought, when it is even difficult for man or horse to travel over the morass. It is supposed before the draining of the level of Hatfield that here was great plenty of water by which the great stones must have been conveyed ; this I think the most probable conjecture. (Signed) G. Stovin, 31 Aug., 1727.” Gentleman's Magazine, Jan., 1747.
